ties. It is backed by powerful influences in the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the latter's National Institute of Mental Health at Bethesda, Md. It is supplemented by an impressive array of national and international anthropologists, psychologists, psychiatrists and social planners in general, cooperating with a worldwide organization within which other dedicated Marxists are at work.

"As with so many groups which have lent themselves in the past to propaganda activities of doubtful value or even of detriment to United States citizens, the mental health movement has drawn in dozens of big names in the advertising and business fields. By using such names, the mental health groups proceed to run state and national campaigns for financial support from the average unsuspecting contributor. With this money, the mental health elite then proceed to press for the state and federal legislation necessary for the accomplishment of their goals."

The Russian Textbook on Psychopolitics states: "Mental health organizations must carefully delete from their ranks anyone actually proficient in the handling or treatment of mental health. Thus must be excluded priests, ministers, actually trained psychoanalysts . . . When groups interested in the health of the community have already been formed they should be infiltrated and taken over, and if this is not possible, they should be discredited and debarred, and the officialdom of the area should be invited to stamp them as dangerous."

With regard to Divine healing of mental cases, the Russian Textbook states: "Insanity must be made to hound the footsteps of every practitioner. His best results must be turned to jibbering insanities no matter what means we have to use . . . You must recruit every agency of the nation marked for slaughter into a foaming hatred of religious healing. You must suborn district attorneys and judges into an intense belief as fervent as an ancient faith in God that . . . religious practice which might devote itself to mental healing is vicious, bad, insanity-causing, publicly hated and intolerable."

Psychiatric wards in regular hospitals is something comparatively new in this country. The underlying reason for having them is given as follows in the Russian Textbook: "If a psychiatric ward could be established in every hospital in every city in a nation, it is certain that, at one time or another, every prominent citizen of that nation could come under the ministrations of psychopolitical operatives or their dupes."

The presence of their psychiatrists in the armed forces of a country means that through the use of drugs, without the after-knowledge of an officer or soldier, plans for military action may be extracted, and thereby "cripple any overt action toward Communism."

Shock and psychosurgery are now the generally accepted methods of treatment for mental illness. These "treatments," according to the Textbook on Psychopolitics, were to be put over on the public by the psychopolitical operator who would insist at all times that these treatments are therapeutic and necessary. "He can, in all of his literature and his books, list large numbers of pretended cures by these means," it states. Should such treatment be called into question, cases of recovery by such treatments, though not real, should be "documented and printed in such a fashion as to form excellent court evidence." Future plans call for legislation that will make it unlawful not to use shock and psychosurgery and that will outlaw, at the same time, all possible means of actually curing the insane.

The Truth About Shock and Psychosurgery

There are several kinds of shock treatments of which insulin shock and electroshock are the most commonly used.

According to a statement in the Textbook on Psychopolitics, electroshock, developed in Russia, has no therapeutic value. Mild shock is valued chiefly as a means of punishment. It may also be used to the extent as to "degrade or entirely alter the personality." Violent shock, short of death, can cause insanity.

BE MODERN PAUL REVERES AND SPREAD THE ALARM TO EVERY U.S.A. VILLAGE AND FARM.

As used on mental cases in hospitals, the obvious effect of electroshock is to quiet the troubled person. A theory as to how it works is that it "cancels some brain patterns and allows new patterns to be formed." In other words, it erases the memory in part or in whole so that the person must learn all over again. One can therefore understand how electroshock may quiet the mentally disturbed if it erases the memory of the matter troubling him. In a similar way, it can be used by the psychopoliticians to brainwash individuals.

Electroshock treatment is dangerous. It can cause death by stopping the heart. It can fracture ribs and bones including the neck and spine. The most common complication, is "biting of the tongue and lips, followed at times by dislocation of the jaw." In some instances it loosens teeth which are subsequently lost.

Psychosurgery was also developed in Russia, according to the Textbook, and of the several types that are performed, lobotomy is the most widely used. There are two kinds of lobotomy operations: prefrontal and trans-orbital. The first operation is performed by opening up the skull; the second, by use of an instrument resembling an ice-pick which is inserted under the eyelid. Both operations accomplish the same thing: the severance of the prefrontal lobes from the rest of the brain. The "ice-pick" operation has been described as follows:

"Electrodes are clamped to the temples of the person to be 'lobotomized.' Next three jolts of electricity are shot through the patient's brain — enough to start violent convulsions which give way to an anaesthetic coma. Then the doctor takes an instrument (like an ice-pick) and inserts it into the fore part of the brain. With a few deft motions, he severs the prefrontal lobes of the brain from the rest of it. Result? A 'Zombie' for want of a better word." (Man's Conquest).

Once this operation is performed the brain is damaged beyond repair, and no later treatment may ever be used. The operation in this country is supposedly used on extreme mental cases in order to quiet them and to make them easier to handle.

Congressman Usher L. Burdick from North Dakota introduced into the Congressional Record for June, 1957, a statement regarding the "Mental Health" movement. He described in detail the lobotomy operation used in Russia as a political weapon and now being made popular in the United States. He then stated:

"It is estimated that 100,000 persons in the United States have been subjected to this operation upon the advice of some psychiatrist. This is murder per se. It is another way of putting the patients to death under the advice of skilled psychiatrists.

Like Zombies (the product of a secret drug), the lobotomy victims can then be employed as slaves working under command in the same manner that a hypnotized person obeys the command of the hypnotist. Like Zombies, they can also be used to commit murder and outrages while the real brains of such crimes committed remain un-

Mental Health's Real Objectives

If you oppose the subversive movement of communism and Jewish nationalism which is undermining our traditions, morals and government and threatening a Marxist dictatorship over us, you are to be seized and "observed" and "treated" for mental illness.

The 47-page pamphlet MENTAL HEALTH AND WORLD CITIZENSHIP published by the National Association for Mental Health, gives the blueprint for legislation designed to complement the remodelling program and reveals its real aims and objectives. IN THE EVENT NON-CONFORMISTS SHOULD REFUSE TO BECOME PART OF THE "STABLE AND CONTENTED" SOCIETY AND BECOME A "NUISANCE TO THE COMMUNITY" AND THE POWERS THAT BE, IT WILL BE SIMPLE LEGALLY TO REMOVE THEM FROM CIRCULATION.

The principal danger of the Mental Health movement is that it equates certain political opinions with sanity and "right" thinking and brands all opposition as sickness. Dr. H. A. Overstreet, in his THE GREAT ENTERPRISE — RELATING OURSELVES TO OUR WORLD, gives a classic definition of developing mental illness, new style:

"A man, for example, may be angrily against racial equality, public housing, the TVA, financial and technical aid to backward countries, organized labor, and the preaching of social rather than salvational religion . . . Such people may appear 'normal' in the sense that they are able to hold a job and otherwise maintain their status as members of society; but they are, we now recognize, well along the road toward mental illness."

Here are a few examples of "Mental Health" in action:

FLETCHER BARTHOLOMEW, the Radio Free Europe employee who was drugged, strapped into a straight jacket and carried against his will across Europe and the United States, all because he criticized a number of RFE personnel.

The FINN twins, who were committed to solitary confinement in a Federal prison, with their sanity discredited, because they accused certain public officials of engaging in illegal activity to deprive them of their property.

POVL BANG-JENSEN, the UN official accused of mental illness, (before he was murdered), because he would not turn over a list of anti-communist witnesses of the Hungarian Revolution to the UN Secretariat.

A. R. FITZPATRICK, a Californian, who was arraigned for irrational behavior because he vehemently opposed America's swing to collectivism.

WHITTAKER CHAMBERS, who was falsely accused of being mentally unbalanced when he testified against Alger Hiss.

LUCHLE MILLER, Bethel, Vermont, patriot who was railroaded into a mental institution because she opposed the unconstitutional peacetime draft.

Then there is GEN. E. A. WALKER of Oxford, Mississippi fame who was falsely arrested and adjudged insane by the Jewish Psychiatrist, Dr. Charles E. Smith (whose father's name was Cantor). The accusations made against Walker were later proven false, but this "pro-blue" General stated during his trial: "I was the Attorney General's, (Bobby Kennedy) guest in his plane under a $100,000 bond, without hearing, counsel, or court order, crossing three state boundaries to a destination unknown — a maximum security cell at the Federal Medical Prison, Springfield, Missouri. His hospitality included a 7 by 10 foot cell, no telephone, telegraph or mail, stripped of my clothing, with food served on the floor."

What patriot will be the next "mental health" victim?

detected.

We must not discount the possibility that in a time of war or revolution the doors of mental institutions may be opened, and its inmates who have been made irrevocably insane through modern "treatments" be freed to carry out, under hypnotic command, murder and rapine.

Everyone should be informed of the truth concerning shock and psychosurgery.
